

Letter of Recommendation for Melissa Dinwiddie

June 4, 2026

To Whom It May Concern,

It is my pleasure to provide this letter of recommendation for Melissa Dinwiddie, an exceptional Innovation Strategist, speaker, and facilitator whose engaging presentation made a significant impact on our organization.

Melissa recently delivered an interactive session to the Project Management Silver Spring Chapter (PMISSC) on June 3, 2026, that focused on innovative project thinking and creative problem-solving, and her presentation exceeded our expectations in every respect. From the outset, she created an energetic and inclusive environment that encouraged participation, collaboration, and fresh perspectives. Rather than relying on a traditional lecture format, Melissa utilized a highly interactive approach that enabled attendees to actively engage with concepts, challenge assumptions, and explore new ways of thinking about project planning and execution.

One of Melissa's greatest strengths is her ability to make innovation accessible to professionals at all levels. She skillfully guided participants through practical exercises that fostered creativity, strategic thinking, and adaptability—skills that are increasingly essential in today's rapidly changing business environment. Her approach inspired attendees to move beyond conventional methods and embrace innovative solutions to organizational challenges.

The feedback from participants was overwhelmingly positive. Attendees consistently praised Melissa's enthusiasm, expertise, and ability to create a safe and engaging space for learning. Many noted that they left the session with actionable tools and renewed confidence in their ability to think creatively and approach projects from a fresh perspective.

Melissa's professionalism, preparation, and dynamic facilitation style make her a standout speaker. She possesses a unique talent for connecting with audiences, fostering meaningful engagement, and delivering content that is both practical and inspiring. Her presentations are not only informative but also transformative, leaving a lasting impact on participants long after the session concludes.

I wholeheartedly recommend Melissa Dinwiddie for speaking engagements, workshops, leadership retreats, innovation initiatives, conferences, and professional development programs. Organizations seeking to cultivate creativity, innovation, collaboration, and forward-thinking leadership will find tremendous value in her presentations and facilitation expertise.

Should you require any additional information regarding Melissa's contributions and impact, I would be pleased to provide further details.

Sincerely,

Charles. M. James, III
